ISLAMIC FINANCE REVIEW: AN EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH PROF. DWIA ARIES TINA PULUBUHU

The Islamic Finance Review (ISFIRE) is the official publication of the Islamic Bankers Association (IBA) and the recently concluded Global Islamic Fintech Summit 2018. ISFIRE disseminates information on current issues in Islamic banking and finance industry, highlighting the achievements and success stories of leading institutions and individuals in Islamic banking and finance. On its August 2018 issue, Hasanuddin University Rector, Prof. Dwia Aries Tina Pulubuhu, was exclusively interviewed to share her experiences as the leader of the leading university in Eastern Indonesia.

Being among the youngest of her peers, Prof. Dwia shared the complexities associated in running a complex organization like a university. Prof. Dwia elaborated how the university has undergone great heights in attaining the international recognition it holds in the present time.

Having entered the Asian University Rankings, she stated that leading the university becoming a World Class University is one of the critical priorities of her leadership terms. As a state-owned university, the complexities of leading Hasanuddin University is also based on the fact that out of the 130 state-owned universities in Indonesia, only 11 (including Hasanuddin University) have been granted legal status of an autonomous university. Hasanuddin University recently facilitated a conference on Shari'a-based economic and financial services, which heavily influenced the reputation of Hasanuddin University in advancing scientific developments on Islamic economics and finance.

Prof. Dwia enthusiastically expressed how the International Conference on Islamic Economic and Finance hosted by Hasanuddin University, exposed the potentials of a Shari'a-based economy in Indonesia.

She is determined and encouraged to further research the scientific development of Islamic economics and finance, as this can be the basis for innovative forms of economic and financial services for a country that consists of 90% Muslims. She further stated that the development of digital-based information technology has the potential to further spur the outreach of Islamic economic and financial services in Indonesia. "My aspiration in the future is that the alumni of our Islamic economics programs will be the driving force for the development of Islamic economics and finance in Indonesia," Prof. Dwia closed.
