

MEETING WITH PROF. DWIA, SIDNEY JONES DISCUSSED ABDUCTION IN THE SULU SEA AGAINST INDONESIAN CITIZENS FROM BUTON

The chair of the Institute for Policy Analysis of Conflict (IPAC), Sidney Jones, who is also an expert and researcher on terrorism in Southeast Asia, visited the Unhas Rector, Prof. Dr. Dwia Aries Tina Pulubuhu, MA. This visit was intended to discuss the abduction in the Sulu Sea, Philippines, which befell an Indonesian citizen (WNI) from Buton. This discussion was also attended by Anthropologist Unhas (Dr. Tasrifin Tahara, M.Sc) and Vice-Rector for Planning, Finance, and Resources (Prof. Ir. Sumbangan Baja, M.Phill, Ph.D.).

Sidney Jones explained that the abduction of Indonesian citizens, especially the citizens of Buton and Wakatobi, was not an issue in Indonesia. However, "This incident should be considered even more serious, it is fitting that three countries (Indonesia, the Philippines, and Malaysia) sit together and discuss the subject matter and how it is resolved," said Sidney. The Government of Indonesia, Philippines, and Malaysia themselves have signed the Trilateral Maritime Patrol (TMP) in 2017, which is an agreement among the 3 countries that will patrol in the border waters of the three countries (Sabah and Sulu Sea).

As a higher education institution that must contribute to society, it is fitting for Unhas to take a role in solving this problem. Prof. Dwia emphasized the readiness of Unhas to facilitate both dialogue and discussion that presents social science experts in the field of conflict resolution. In addition to experts, in this dialogue, it is necessary to invite native figures who understand well and have closeness, both geographically and emotionally. The results of this dialogue and discussion will later be given to the government as consideration for the preparation of the strategy.

Tasrifin Tahara, researcher and Anthropologist Unhas who also came from Buton, felt he had moral responsibility and emotional closeness in this international abduction case.

The researcher who concentrated on the maritime shipping tradition admitted that this problem which if it will be published later can become a reference for various parties.

STUDENTS AND YOUNG LECTURERS OF FACULTY OF DENTISTRY OF UNHAS JOINED SAKURAN AND ODAPUS PROGRAM IN JAPAN

Two students, Filzah Azalia and Amirah Rizkyanti Syamsul, from Faculty of Dentistry of UNHAS, had a chance to participate in the Program of Okayama University Dental School Short Term Study Abroad for Undergraduate Students known as Odapus Program. Last year, the Faculty of Dentistry of Unhas also sent young lecturers to participate in the Sakura Program, which is part of Odapus. The three lecturers sent were drg. Acing Habibie Mude, PhD., Drg. Zilal Islamy Paramma, Sp.Ort., and drg. Syakriani, Sp.KGA.

Sakura and Odapus Program are the annual programs of the Faculty of Dentistry of Unhas. Unhas annually dispatches their lecturers and students as a part of the exchange program with Okayama University, Japan. Dean of Faculty of Dentistry of Unhas, drg. Muhammad Ruslin, M. Kes, Ph.D.,

Sp.BM (K) said that this program was very positive for students to observe the education system and student life in Japan. Thus, students and lecturers who participate in the program are expected to gain broader insights and have a global perspective. Furthermore, the programs provided opportunities for young Unhas lecturers who wished to continue their education abroad. For this reason, outbound lecturer programs are available which are hosted by the Japan Science and Technology Agency through the Sakura Program.

The event coordinator, drg. Acing Habibie Mude, PhD. added that while attending the program at Okayama University, our lecturers and students will join other lecturers and students from various countries such as Brazil and Vietnam.

Prof. Fuh explained, among others, the process of making dentures that are done conventionally and by using modern technology.”In the mechanism of prosthodontic action to avoid errors or process errors, one of the supporting factors that need to be considered is when selecting the material or material used,” said Prof. Fuh

Dean of FKG Unhas, drg. Muhammad Ruslin, M. Kes., Ph.D., SP. BM (K) said that aside from being FKG’s efforts to support Unhas as a World Class University (WCU). These lectures also become one of the effective learning media that is useful for updating student scientific information.

UNHAS FACULTY OF LAW INITIATES INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION WITH THE INDONESIAN EMBASSY IN BANGKOK

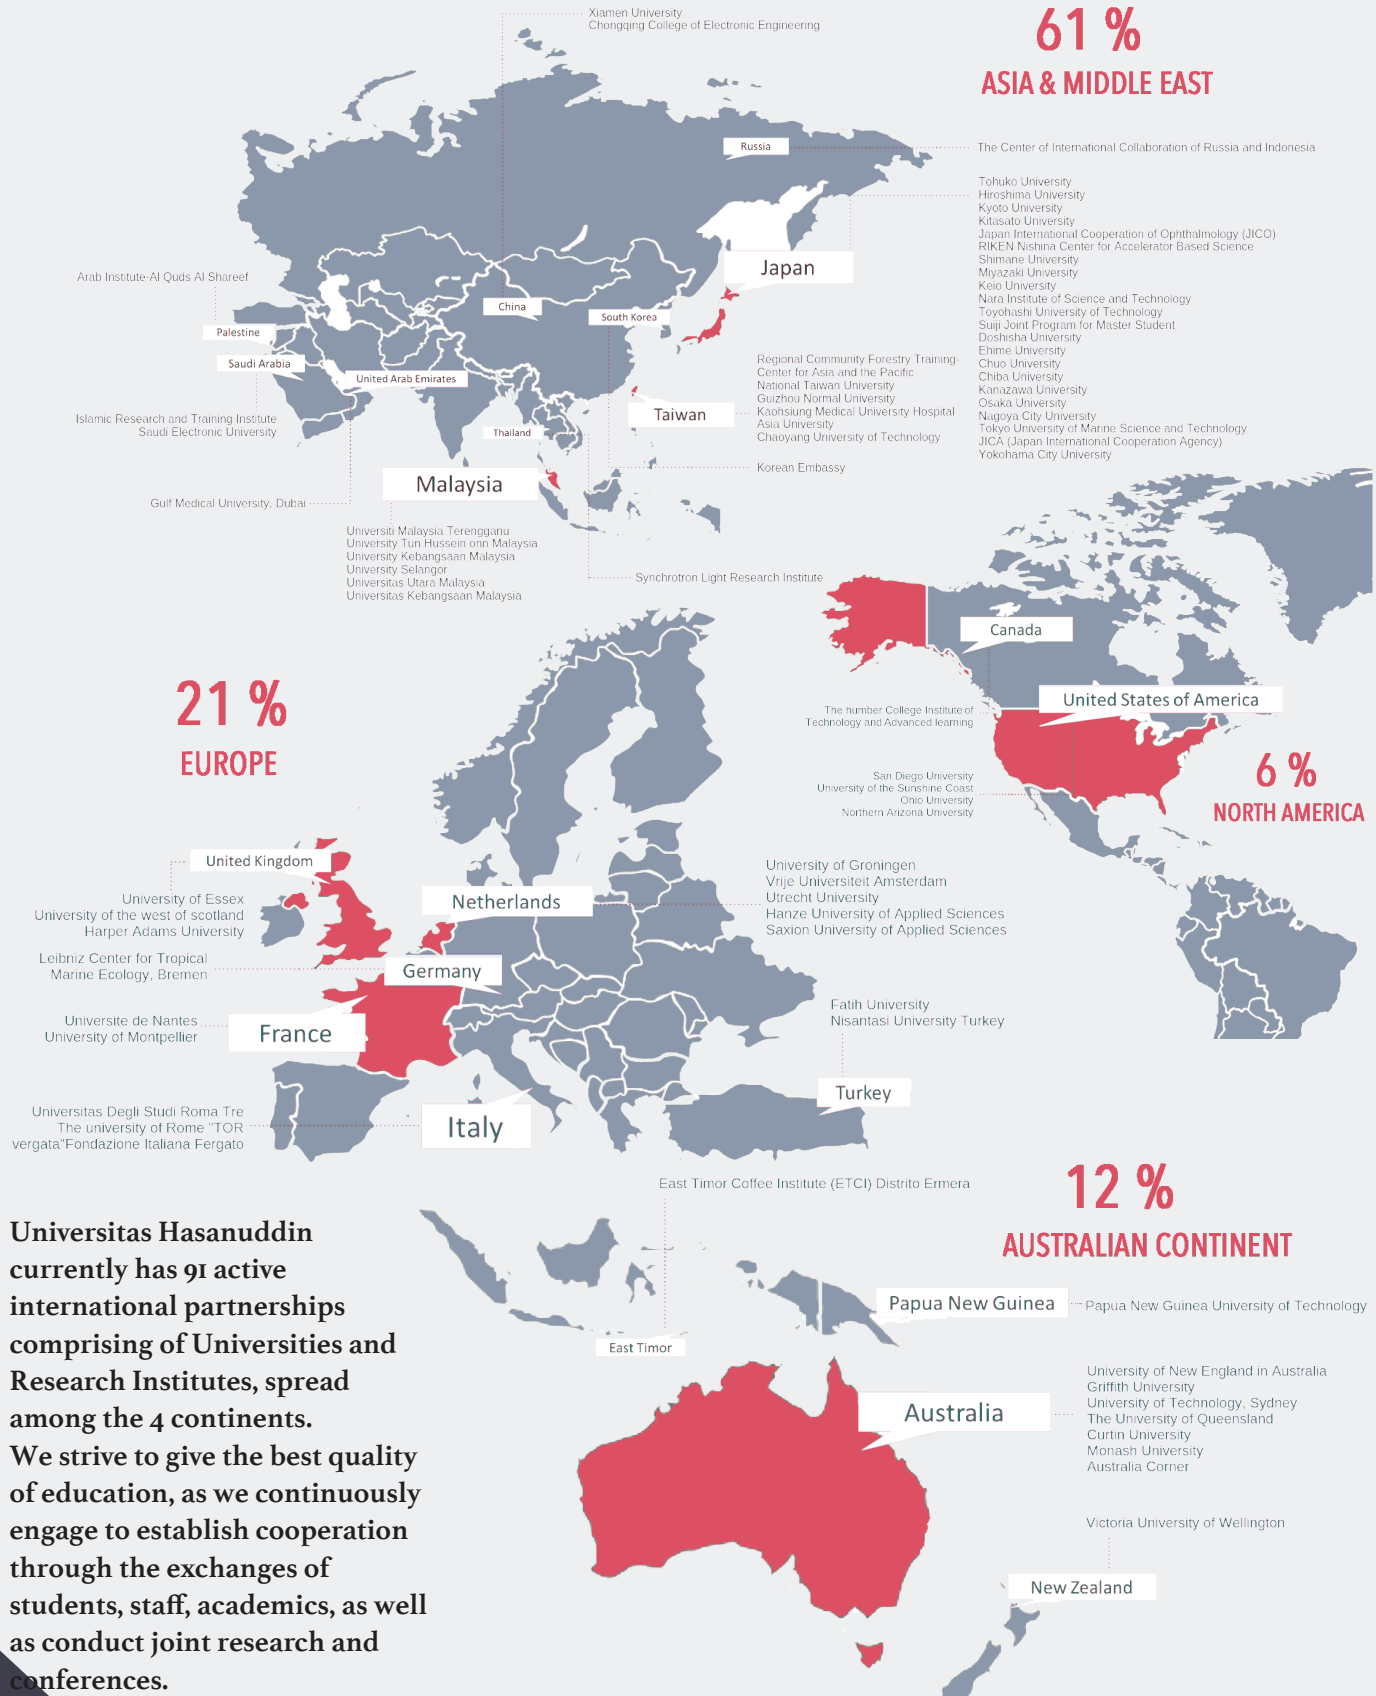

The Faculty of Law of Hasanuddin University began 2020 by visiting the Embassy of the Republic of Indonesia (KBRI) Bangkok in Thailand. The delegation team was led directly by the Dean (Prof. Dr. Farida Patittingi, SH, MH) accompanied by the Deputy Dean of Finance and Resources (Dr. Syamsuddin Muchtar, SH, MH) and the Deputy Dean for Student Affairs Alumni and Cooperation (Dr. Muh. Hasrul, SH, MH). Also present were the Chairpersons of the S1 Study Program (Dr. Maskun, S.H., M.H) and the Chair of the S2 Study Program (Dr. Hasbir, S.H., M.H). UNHAS Faculty of Law Delegation was received by the Information and Socio-Cultural Affairs Counselor of the Indonesian Embassy in Bangkok, Nur Rokhmah Hidayah, on Thursday (2/1/2020).

The Dean of the Faculty of Law Unhas explained that the purpose of the delegation's visit was to continue the cooperative relationship that had been established such as an internship program at the Indonesian Embassy in Bangkok. In addition, there will be discussions to obtain the support of the Indonesian Embassy in Bangkok to open new cooperation in the field of education with universities in Bangkok. Expected cooperation such as visiting professor schemes, inbound and outbound professors, student exchanges, research collaborations, and international conferences.

Nur Rahmah Hidayah as a representative of the Indonesian Embassy in Bangkok welcomed and would facilitate this. So far, bilateral relations between Indonesia and Thailand in the field of education have been going well, so that the Indonesian Embassy can take a role to facilitate university-to-university cooperation.
