ABOUT UNHAS

Hasanuddin University, commonly known as Unhas, is named after a national hero of the Republic of Indonesia from South Sulawesi. Sultan Hasanuddin was a famous leader of the Islamic Sultanate of Gowa-Tallo. Born with the name Muhammad Bakir I Mallombasi Daeng Mattawang Karaeng Bonto Mangape, as Sultan of Gowa he earned the nickname "Rooster from the East" due to his bravery in resisting Dutch colonialism.

His philosophy of life is in line with the maritime vision of Hasanuddin University. His famous motto was "Takunjunga' bangung turu', nakugunciri' gulingku, kualleangnga tallanga natoalia!" (My sails are set and filled, my rudder is affixed, I'd rather sink than retreat!).

The philosophy of life, teachings and spirit of Sultan Hasanuddin are also enshrined in various university statutes and marks of the identity of Hasanuddin University. They have inspired names, vision statements and values, the flag, hymn, marches, and uniform (alma mater) blazer. Sultan Hasanuddin has also influenced core Unhas values and principles, in particular integrity, innovation, striving to serve as a catalyst and to seek wisdom.

Unhas is one of the few leading state universities in Indonesia with an autonomous legal entity (PTN-BH) status. Founded in 1956 and located in Makassar, the capital city of South Sulawesi Province, Unhas currently has 17 faculties offering various undergraduate and postgraduate programs. Unhas also offers international class programs in all faculties.

TRANSPORTATION

Bus (Teman Bus)

Teman Bus, a Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) system, offers an efficient and affordable way to explore Makassar and its surrounding areas. With a flat fare of just IDR 4,600, it provides an economical travel option for both residents and visitors. The service includes 28 designated bus stops across the city, ensuring convenient access for passengers. The Teman Bus mobile application, available for download, allows users to track bus schedules and plan their journeys easily. This app is also functional in other cities where Teman Bus operates, including Yogyakarta, Solo, Bali, Medan, and Palembang.

In 2024, Teman Bus expanded its routes within the UNHAS Tamalanrea campus (Corridor 2) to include access to the UNHAS Gowa campus (Corridor 5). This expansion significantly enhances the ease of travel for UNHAS students and academic staff between the two campuses.

For more details and updates, follow Teman Bus on Instagram at @temanbusmakassar

Pete-pete (Minibus)

The Pete-pete or mikrolet minibus is the most common form of public transport in Makassar. There are various pete-pete routes serving Makassar City. The codes for pete-pete routes that serve Unhas Tamalanrea Campus are 02, 05, and 07.

It is easy to get on board a pete-pete. Generally, if you wave at the pete-pete, the driver will stop in front of you unless it is full, or the driver is not currently working. If you are standing on the side of the road, the driver often thinks you are going to take the pete-pete. If you do not want to take it, you can ignore it, then the driver will drive away, or you can shake your head to indicate you do not want to ride in it now.

If you decide to take a pete-pete, when you get close to or reach your destination, you just have to say "kiri" (to the left in English) to the driver. Make sure they can hear your signal because sometimes the pete-pete is noisy due to the music played by the driver and/or the traffic. You can also tell the driver where you are going, so he will stop and let you off at the right place. The current price is IDR 9,000.

Online Transport

In this digital era, it is often easier to move around campus and Makassar using online transport services. You can access these through mobile applications on your smartphone. Online transport can be by car or motorcycle. Students and the public often use motorcycles to move around since traffic in Makassar can be bad, especially during the morning and the late afternoon rush hours. There are several operators that provide online transport services in Makassar, in particular Gojek, Grab and Maxim.

Becak and Bentor

A becak is a three-wheeled man powered vehicle that is still often used in Makassar for transportation over short distances. There is also a hybrid version of a becak with a motorcycle called a bentor (becak-motor) that is increasingly common in Makassar. The bentor has the advantage of being faster and able to travel for longer distances.

Indonesia is an archipelagic state consisting of 17,000 islands. Indonesia is strategically located between Asia and Australia, and between India and the Pacific Ocean. Indonesia is a diverse country with around 700 ethnic groups. Indonesia is ranked as the fourth most densely populated nation globally. The vast majority of the population is Muslim, but Indonesia also has Buddhism, Catholicism, Protestantism, Confucianism, Hinduism, and other local beliefs. Indonesia consists of five main islands: Sumatra, Kalimantan, Java, Sulawesi, and Papua. Java is the most densely populated Island.
